

Crypto exchange

Risk Disclosure

Cryptocurrencies and related products, including the trading of cryptocurrencies on exchanges, are high-risk investment products. Please read the risks carefully before you start trading cryptocurrencies on our exchange.

High volatility

Cryptocurrency exchange rate can be subject to significant fluctuations in short periods of time. This can lead to significant losses for the trading account.

Technology imperfection

Cryptocurrency technology is under development and may be prone to bugs, crashes and other issues that can lead to loss of funds.

Security risks

Cryptocurrency exchanges can become the target of cyberattacks and other criminal activities that can lead to the leakage of confidential information and theft of funds.

Lack of regulation

Cryptocurrencies are not regulated by government agencies and do not have guarantee funds that can protect investors in the event of an exchange bankruptcy or other problems.

Risks of cryptocurrency wallets

Storing cryptocurrencies in wallets may be at risk of losing access to the wallet or the cryptocurrencies that are stored on it.

Market liquidity risks

Some cryptocurrencies may have low liquidity, which can make it difficult to sell or buy them.

The user must understand that trading in cryptocurrencies is a high-risk investment activity and should be carried out only after a thorough study of the risks and their financial capabilities. The user must be prepared for the loss of funds that he invested in cryptocurrencies. The Company is not responsible for losses incurred by the User when trading cryptocurrencies.